

AI Policy

Our guidance, and in consultation with Arts Council England, our policy is that writers and authors can use AI to aid them with their writing, be that in the creative process with brainstorming, refinement or with accessibility needs (such as spellings and grammar checks) and formatting.

AI must not be the primary author of creative content that is presented as original work. As such, material substantially produced by AI should not be passed off as the creator's own without disclosure.
